Excerpt: .Not all such orders for help can bc filled but if the offices have knowledge of all opcniiigs, the available labor can be distributed with zi ininiinum loss to both employers and employes. The responsibility of the office docs not end, however, in the securing of orders for help. It has been the policy and practice of the offices as far as possible to take any steps necessary to secure the workers requested by employers even though no suitable applicants have voluntarily presented themselves. As a guage of the enfectiveness of the ofnces in making better grade placements, a special form of daily report was introduced in March, 1916. During the four months from March to June 30, 1916, according to last year s report, a total of 856 high-grade placements were reported, an average of 214 per month. During the year ending June 30, 1917, a total of 4,460 high-grade placements were reported, an average of 3.72 per month. Of these 4,460 placements, 2,759 were males and 1,701 were females. The instructions on the form for reporting high-grade male place ments were, Include all permanent placements of males at 35 cents or over per hour, $18 or over per week, or$75 or over per month. All placements are to be regarded as permanent if the employer stated when he placed the order that the position would be permanent if satisfactorily filled. Of course, under these instructions a great many placements of laborers and...
